

Rhulani NEXT

The new artworks lend an African feel to our rooms, and are complemented by splashes of colourful fabric

In 2013 we introduced a series of new services and amenities at Rhulani, we updated our eland logo and we relaunched our website. So what's next?

We are redecorating Rhulani, and have commissioned South African interior design company Flipswitch for this important task. Our new look will be revealed in November 2014.

It is a complex and subtle job: we are a luxury, five-star lodge with all the services and amenities of a five-star hotel – but we want our guests to feel, smell, see and hear the bush, so we take great care in creating the perfect balance of stimuli. Our objective is to create a unique Rhulani feeling.

We are keeping our colour palette – brown, beige and terracotta that are inspired by the changing colours of the Earth, with added splashes of red and yellow. The addition of yellow and coral red symbolises the African sunrise and sunset. Our earthy tones are embedded in nature.

In much the same way, Rhulani was designed and built to blend as much as possible into its surroundings. It is only when you are at Rhulani and observe its incredible wildlife that you truly appreciate how perfectly all the elements of nature interact – as they always have.

Come and visit the new Rhulani – inside and out, it will be a feast for your senses.

Private chalets

Launch:

November
2014

We reuse and up-cycle existing items to retain our interiors'
organic, authentic feel

The artist:
Sharon B

For our new artwork, we have chosen Sharon B, an established artist and designer. Her work can be seen locally and internationally. Her art celebrates indigenous natural beauty, while encouraging people to take steps to protect it.

Reception area

Bar area

Inside lounge

Rhulani NEXT

Outside lounge

Texture and natural fabrics bring the areas to life and reflect the outside surroundings ...

Launch:

November
2014

... while soft tones with touches of brighter, warm colours create inviting interiors

